The Duke of Aosta, brother of King Humbert, of Italy, died last Saturday, aged 45 years.

There is no longer any apprehension of a flood in the Ohio valley. The river has begun to fall.

Dr. Edward Miller, a prominent physician of Louisville, died Monday of paralysis of the heart.

The Argentine Republic is the first government to formally recognize the new republic of Brazil.

La grippe is growing less malignant in the eastern cities and the disease has about spent its force.

There is a snow blockade on the Central Pacific. In the Sierras the snow is three feet deep and still falling.

Two masked robbers stopped a Southern Pacific train near Tulare, Cal., and rifled the express car Monday night.

The unsentimental editor of the Paducah News describes a beautiful young lady as having "dark eyes and a dark skin."

Ex-Senator Riddleberger, of Virginia, is critically ill, with but slight hopes of recovery. Another victim of the drinking habit.

The dispute between Portugal and England is rapidly assuming a serious aspect. The quarrel may result in Portugal's being spanked.

Mr. Daniel O'Sullivan, father of Dan E. O'Sullivan, editor of the Louisville Critic, died in Louisville Sunday in the 76th year of his age. He was born in Ireland, but came to Kentucky forty years ago.

Three Democratic members of the Ohio Legislature have died since that body met. Still another is at death's door. So many members of both parties are down with the grip that legislation is almost entirely suspended.

Fanny Davenport has again been robbed of diamonds to the value of $150. Fanny makes it a point to be robbed every time a fresh rumor about Mary Anderson's marriage is started. Now look out for Kate Claxton to follow with a fire.

The State convention of the Wheel and Alliance organizations, held at Bowling Green for the purpose of consolidating the two orders, finished the work Saturday and adjourned. Before the meeting adjourned they adopted a resolution endorsing Gov. Buckner's efforts to reform certain abuses. The Governor's course seems to be meeting with public approval on all sides.

Nellie Bly has arrived at San Francisco from Yokohama and is hurrying across the continent as fast as snow blockades will permit to the office of the New York World. She started out to make the trip around the world in less than eighty days, and will succeed. She may make it in seventy-four days, beating the record four days. She will write a book of her reminiscences and experiences on the trip. The journey was undertaken to advertise the newspaper upon which she is employed as a regular writer.

The Cumberland Gap tunnel, now about completed, is 3,587 feet long, all of which, except 150 feet, is now ready for the track. The approaches to the tunnel on each side are 600 feet in length; these approaches are enormous cuts, becoming seventy feet deep at the mouth of the tunnel on one side and sixty feet deep on the other. On the Kentucky side a vein of very fine coal, five feet thick, was passed through. The coal has been used by the contractors. The total length of the tunnel and approaches is over 4,600 feet, with a very high trestle on the west side, 300 feet long, adjoining the approach. One month will complete the gigantic work—Nashville Herald.

LEGISLATIVE MATTERS.

The anti-trust bill was passed by the Senate.

Boyle county was given a chance to vote on local option.

A criminal court was created for the relief of the Marion Circuit Court.

Mr. Stevenson introduced a bill to reduce the State tax from 47½ to 42½ cents.

The investigation of Judge Jackson was begun Tuesday night by the House committee.

It is likely that the Superior Court will be continued, at least until a new constitution is adopted.

Speaker Myers has not been absent from his chair a single day since the House was organized. He makes a splendid officer.

The House bill fixing the compensation of Commonwealth's Attorneys at a salary of $3,000 was reported adversely and defeated.

The two Houses in joint session formally elected Mrs. Day, the caucus nominee, Librarian on Tuesday for two years.

The vote on the resolution requiring all amendments to the code to be printed was reconsidered and the resolution was adopted.

A bill was passed the House giving owners of studs, bulls and jacks a lien upon the progeny of their stock for the service price.

Mr. Cox offered a joint resolution directing the Governor to appoint a custodian for the Kentucky Historical Society records at a salary of $3,000 with $500 added for rent, etc.

The Senate has passed the bill establishing a State Bureau of Immigration, with an annual appropriation of $20,000. An amendment to reduce the appropriation to $5,000 was defeated. Only eight senators voted for it, Lunsford among them.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE for January: announces two new and valuable departments—"Biblical Literature" and "Pedagogy"—with Rev. J. C. Quinn, Ph. D., and J. S. Mills, A. M., President of Western College, as editors.

Agricultural readers will be especially interested in the new "Institute of Agriculture," described in this number—a part of the University Extension System of the National University of Chicago, whose non-resident or correspondence under graduate and post graduate courses have met with such favor. Other articles are by Prof. E. A. Birge, of the University of Wisconsin, and eminent specialists.

Published at 147 Troup street, Chicago, Ill. Subscription, $1.00 per year. Sample copy, 10 cents. Three cash prizes of fifty dollars each for the best essays on "Our Common Schools," "Study of the Bible," "How to Keep Young Men on the Farm," are announced.

The U. S. Merchants Protective Association heartily recommended.

MA. F. A. FULLER, Louisville, Ky. Dean Sir:—We take pleasure in stating that through the Association which you represent we have been enabled to collect in cash many times the amount of the subscription price of membership; and we have also, in our hands, notes for a considerable amount, all of which we believe was quickened by the aid of your Association.

We heartily recommend it to all merchants who do a credit business, and wish that you could induce other leading saw manufacturers to adopt its use. Wishing you success in obtaining a good list of patrons, we are,

Yours Truly,
HENRY DISSTON & SONS—INCORPORATED.

Comment is unnecessary, for if the above firm had not been benefited, they would not say so.

The argument in the West Virginia gubernatorial contest was begun Wednesday with a four-hour speech from Judge Okey Johnson. There will be ten days of speaking for each side. In the meantime Speaker Woods, of the House, a Democrat, is very ill. His death would leave the Legislature on a joint ballot until the vacancy could be filled.

Owensboro held a mass meeting Monday to endorse Gov. Buckner for the way he fired into things generally in his message. Resolutions approving his course throughout were adopted and the Inquirer says the meeting was a grand success.

La grippe has struck Chicago in a very violent form and is sweeping off people at the rate of twenty a day.

A carpet manufacturer named Dobson, who will succeed "Pig Iron Kelly" in Congress, will vote for free wool.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, Lucas County.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. SOUTH CHRISTIAN.

PRE. DEB, JAN. 20.—There have been a great many hogs killed in this vicinity since the cold weather set in. It is to be hoped that those who have lately killed will be fortunate enough to save their meat.

Last Saturday night the 18th was the time appointed by the Republican candidates for speaking at this place, but only two of them made their appearance, namely, H. W. Breathitt and J. W. Hanbury. The crowd was large and several speeches were made by colored people.

Mrs. J. I. Longacre, of this place, is quite ill. Dr. J. A. Whitlock is treating her. We hope to see her up again soon.

Mr. Wm. Allen, also of this place, is confined to his bed with erysipelas.

Mr. Will Taylor, of Trigg county, was in our town last Sunday. Bill is a jolly boy and his many friends here are always glad to see him.

Mr. J. S. Jobe, of Bennettsburg, paid us a short visit one day last week.

Mr. R. F. Darnell was in Poe Dec a few days ago.

Mr. John Outlaw and wife left for Nashville a few days ago, at which place they will reside in the future.

Miss Eunice Farnsworth left yesterday for Trenton, Tenn., where she will attend school.

Mr. Emmett Luttrell, the town beauty, can be found behind the counters of Ford & Wootton.

T. W. Wootton, of your city, was in our town last week in the interest of his store here.

Will some of the Poe Dec correspondents tell us something of the whereabouts of Mam's Gal. Your correspondent is almost constrained to believe that she has eloped to Clarksville with Pap's Boy and married.

The dance which was to be given at Mr. John Morrison's last Monday night was postponed, owing to the inclemency of the weather.

The young folks of this place spent a very pleasant evening at Mr. R. W. Allen's last Friday night.

JACKSON, TENN.

JACKSON, TENN., JAN. 18.—The 18th of January, 1889, I left your city, now lacking a few days of being one year ago. I thought then only to be gone a few days to visit my two daughters in Mississippi, the sunny south. I was in and about Oxford where they were teaching in the Oxford Female College, Annie being principal.

Through the Jackson papers I found this city was fast improving and I came here about the last of February to see and find out. I was an entire stranger, knowing but one man in the city and he at that time was from home; made my business known to some of the leading men of the city who did not say, as some men of their rank and ability would have done, I can't leave my office, etc., but showed me the utmost courtesy and favor of taking me around over the city and introducing me to the contractors and builders. I was not long in securing a position with Heavener & Co., the largest contractors of the city. Owing to delays in getting lumber from the mills I did not return until the last of March. Since that time we have been on the go, crowded with work and the end is not in sight and will not be in six months, without taking any more new contracts. I am now again in a very pleasant little home with all my children, the first time we have all been together in five years. When we broke up I had two daughters and one son. Now I have two sons, Conductor C. I Holman being lately added to the family by changing the name of my daughter Maytie from Kennedy to Holman. Annie has a good and prominent position in the school here and we are all well satisfied with city and citizens, being so very social and pleasant. We, as a family, lack one thing yet, and that is the KENTUCKIAN. I find after doing without it awhile there is something wrong. My food doesn't digest well and I believe it is just as necessary to good health to have the KENTUCKIAN as it is for a chicken to have gravel, so send it on by return mail. With kindest regards and wishes for the success of the KENTUCKIAN and my old friends, I close, as ever yours,

D. L. KENNEDY.

Literary Notice.

The scholars of our public schools will be interested in an offer made by THE YOUTH'S COMPANION in its issue of January 9. Its purpose is to stimulate them in a commendable competition and at the same time increase their love for their country. The publishers of THE COMPANION offer to present a fine large hunting flag, 9 by 15 feet, with forty-two stars, to that public school in each one of the forty-two States and Territories, which shall send to them the best essay on "The Patriotic Influence of the American Flag When Raised over Our Public Schools." These essays will be received by the publishers of THE COMPANION until April 1, 1890. The award of the flag will be made as near June 1 as possible, in order that the successful school may float the "Stars and Stripes" over its building upon the Fourth of July, next.

This movement to interest the young people of the present generation in securing a flag for the school house, is one that should be heartily commended and encouraged. Why cannot one of our own schools secure THE COMPANION Flag for this State?

Readers, did you ever stop to think that the KENTUCKIAN was the cheapest and best paper for you to take.

The Wheelers Union.

The Wheelers Union has recently been a subject of general discussion. Its phenomenal growth promises to make the organization a great power in the State. It is confined to the agricultural districts, and only farmers are eligible for membership. While its principles are not altogether new, the organization has excited a great deal of interest by its rapid growth and bold innovations.

Working for the advantage of the farmers will, of necessity, antagonize them against the manufacturers and capitalists. They declare that the reduction of taxes on the necessities of life and their advancement on the luxuries will be a principle strongly advocated by them.

In regard to their organization, the Wheelers aim to establish a lodge in every [school] district of the State. This object has already been realized in Webster, Union, Henderson, Davies, Hopkins and other counties. In one county alone there are forty lodges. The organization has not yet had the opportunity to spread over the entire State, but doubtless it will have done so shortly.

The organization is not devoting all its attention to the establishment of lodges, but the greater part of their energies will bring more material benefits, so it is proposed. While they have as yet erected but few corporations, they have contracted with merchants in Hendersonville, Audubon, Wilson's Station, Dixie, Zion, Niagara, Vanderburg, Pool's Mill, Tilden, Blankford, Sturgis, Roxville, Borderly and other places existing in Western Kentucky. They make a special agreement with one merchant in each little town to provide them with merchandise at 10 per cent. net profit for cash payments. The lively stable men make a special reduction on the prices of feed and rent for stalls.

But the largest enterprise the Wheelers have undertaken is a flour mill to be erected at a place called Pool's Mills, in Webster county, at the cost of $5,000. It is to be established on a stock basis, and is under the control of directors. The Wheelers have an official organ in a newspaper published at Fulton, Ky., which is subscribed for by nearly every State member of the organization.

Of course the organization will receive considerable adverse criticism, but it will be generally conceded that the farmers have as much right to organize as any other class of men. And the paralysis of all kinds of business will be predicted, but if the efforts of the members are retained within proper bounds great good will result to the farmers and little detriment to other classes.

MANAGEMENT OF SWINE.

A Western Stock-Man's Method of Feeding and Pasturing.

I generally keep about one hundred thoroughbred Poland-Chinas, choosing those with ears so formed, that they can see in all directions, and possessors of the necessary vitality and action to keep out of the way of cattle. In the summer my hogs are allowed to run on fifteen acres of grass, consisting of blue grass, orchard grass, timothy and clover mixed. Besides this they are fed soaked corn and shorts, with plenty of pure well water, twice a day, varied sometimes with an ear of corn once a day, care being taken that the brooders do not become fat. In the fall they are fed turnips, sorghum, apples and an increasing amount of corn and Potomac hick, etc., and would be added if they could be raised here. Sorghum sown broadcast, cut ripe with the mower and raked with the hay rake, has proved a very profitable vegetable food with me. The cattle are fed broken ear corn in troughs, and each one is followed by two hogs and a pig. In a trough on the ground I keep a mixture of 1 bushel of common salt, 1 peck of ashes and charcoal, 10 pounds of strong Epsom soda, 1 pound of powdered mandrake root, 5 pounds of powdered cayenne and 5 pounds of cayenne pepper, and 5 pounds of cayenne pepper. When I notice yellow water I add 2 pounds of saltpetre. With this method of feeding I have not lost a hog by disease in four years, except one by blind staggers. I allowed him to die in order to learn if possible the cause and remedy for this disease, and came to the conclusion that the real cause is indigestion, for which the best cure is one ounce of blunth of potash daily for several days. My hogs sleep on a sand bed under a shed which is well protected from wind and water, and are separated by partitions so that not over six can sleep together. At one side a small aperture allows the young pigs to a lap into a still warmer place. They have pure, clean water and their coats shine. This is a most successful as well as easy method of taking care of swine, and those who try it will find it as I have said—W. S. Hanna, a Swine Breeder's Journal.

PATENTS AND PROGRESS.

Marvellous Changes wrought by Invention in Half a Century.

One need not be very old to have a distinct recollection of his daily life, its conditions and environments, fifty years ago, when the patent system in the United States was in its infancy. Then the country was almost entirely agricultural, for our grand career in manufactures and the industrial arts was just beginning. It virtually began with the patent system—the creation of the patent office—and it has actually kept pace with the development of the system, so that its magnificent progress stands as the indisputable result of the system. In other words, we owe our splendid achievements in manufactures and the arts to the stimulus that the patent laws have given to invention.

Fifty years ago most of the people of the United States were clothed from the products of the domestic spinning-wheel and hand loom. The itinerant shoemaker went from house to house, setting up his bench and plying his vocation in the farmers' kitchens. There were no planing-mills or shops for the manufacture of doors, sashes or blinds. All the work of the builder, including carpenters' and joiners' work, was done by hand. The carpenter, if a good one, got one dollar a day. Coal was consumed but by few families even in the large cities, and by nobody in the smaller towns. The tailors, like the shoemakers, came to the house and made into clothing the cloth woven by the mother and daughters, with a little help from the fulling-mill that was generally near the grist-mill of the neighborhood. The railroad and telegraph had not yet added their powers to the forces of civilization. This year, 1889, is no more like 1839 than the hand-loom is like the cotton factory. "Better, fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay." Better one year of the life that is lived under the new conditions of the world, than the years of the hard existence that was dragged out under the old conditions. It is only the hopeless pessimistic soul, the constitutional and incurable grumbler, that does not recognize the blessings that have come with the march of invention. For all these, let it be borne in mind, we are indebted to the system that has fostered invention and secured to inventors the right to enjoy the products of their own brains and hands.—Inventive Age.

MAPS BY TELEGRAPH.

One Can Now Send Manuscript or Picture to the Editor of the Telegraph.

The fac-simile telegraph, by which manuscript, maps or pictures may be transmitted, is a species of the automatic method already described, in which the receiver is actuated synchronously with its transmitter. By Lenoir's method a picture or map is outlined with insulating ink upon the cylindrical surface of a rotating drum, which revolves under a point having a slow movement along the axis of the cylinder, and thus the conducting points pass over the cylindrical surface in a spiral path. The electric circuit will be broken by every ink mark on the cylinder, which is in this path and thereby corresponding marks are made in a spiral line by an ink marker upon a drum at the receiving end. To produce these outlines it is only necessary that the two drums be rotated in unison. This system is of little utility, these being no apparent demand for fac-simile transmission, particularly at so great an expense of speed, for it will be seen that instead of making a character of the alphabet by a few separate pulses, as is done by Morse, the number must be greatly increased. Many data become necessary to show the outlines of the more complex characters. The fac-simile telegraph is an interesting type of the fac-simile method. In this form the movements of a pen in the writer's hand produce corresponding movements of the pen at the distant station and thereby a fac-simile record.—Scientific Magazine.
